“stylish”, both inside and out, and feels expensive. The engines – neither of which have a turbo – are not as powerful as they could be; but if you’re in the market for this kind of car, it’s well worth considering.

and, more importantly, the set-up is “as intuitive to use as you could hope for”. It’s a “blessed relief” to find buttons you can operate by feel, and the rotary controller that replaces a touch screen also limits distraction.

though they’re good enough for driving owners who want a firm, but with “precise”. If you’re looking for a “plush” SUV, one for the Eye mask Made from graphene, this eye mask moulds closely to your face but lets out the maximum amount of light. If you plug it into a USB port it can also be gently heated (simbasleep.com).

PuriBloc tap water filter Drop one of the PuriBloc pods into a tap water and it will instantly filter it using a graphene core with natural purifying properties. You can treat up to 100 litres of water (€20; puribloc.co.uk).

▲ Pliqo pack-in bag
A replacement for unwieldy garment bags, Pliqo’s clever folding system enables you to pack a suit down to the size of a small laptop bag, so you can carry it like a briefcase or stow it in a larger case (£125; pliqobag.com).

► Patchology On the Fly kit

Frequent flyers pack products to combat dehydration in their hand luggage. This kit has eye gels, a lip gel and face masks to help you emerge from the plane feeling fresh (£18; patchology.co.uk).

◀ Activ5
your foot massager. It’s a pod-sized gadget with a sensor that gives you training feedback. It can do a variety of things, including measures your foot pressure as you squeeze it in various ways (£130; activ5.co.uk).
